AUDITOR-GENERAL'S REPORT Implementing Auditor-General's Performance Audit Report Recommendations

NSW Government agencies have sound processes for implementing performance audit recommendations in Auditor-General's Reports to Parliament. There are many cases of good practice. For example, some agencies formed a steering committee and developed a detailed plan to implement recommendations. Another incorporated the implementation of recommendations into both its business plan and the work plans of individual officers who were managing projects. Most agencies also used their Audit and Risk Committees to monitor recommendations.

We found some cases where agencies can improve how they coordinate actions to address recommendations. Most agencies were not revisiting these actions to determine whether they remain appropriate.
